

Mansoor Faridi

Advisor
Global Business Development

Mansoor Faridi is Advisor to the CEO. He advises Paperless Technology on matters relating to global business development.

Mansoor worked as an Account Manager for Xerox Corporation, where he managed corporate global accounts for Xerox Global Services. He worked with a team responsible for formulating and implementing marketing strategies and strategic business initiatives for Xerox's global account team, leading to revenue growth and client satisfaction. Mansoor also had a short stint with America Online as well.

Mansoor possesses a wide range of experience in audit, systems analysis, process improvement, risk management, database development and customer relationship management. Mansoor is also a former Canadian civil servant, where he worked in the areas of assurance & advisory, finance and Information Technology.

His professional interests revolve around SDLC, risk management, business development, corporate accountability, strategy & planning, Lean Six Sigma and organizational citizenship.

An avid cricketer and golfer, he enjoys reading on corporate compliance, internal controls, organizational behavior, business process improvement and risk management.

Mansoor was awarded his Advanced Level certificate by the University of Cambridge, United Kingdom. He went on to earn his Bachelor of Business Administration degree from the University of New Brunswick (Canada), majoring in Electronic Business. He is also a member of the Society of Management Accountants of Canada.